

AGSES is the Path to Professional Excellence

- Cutting-Edge
- Economical Training
- Networking
- Diversity of Thought

"AGSES has a key role to play in Girl Scouting serving as a voice for executive staff and continuously inspiring us to keep learning and growing. I am a proud lifetime member."

Kathy Cloninger, CEO
Girl Scouts of the USA

Invest in yourself.

Invest in your professional development.

Invest in the future of Girl Scouting.

Join Us Today!

If you're searching for ways to enrich your skills and enrich your professional staff experience, then AGSES is your solution. The AGSES membership year is January through December, but you may join at any time. You can also invest in your future by becoming an AGSES lifetime member.

Visit the AGSES web site for more information.

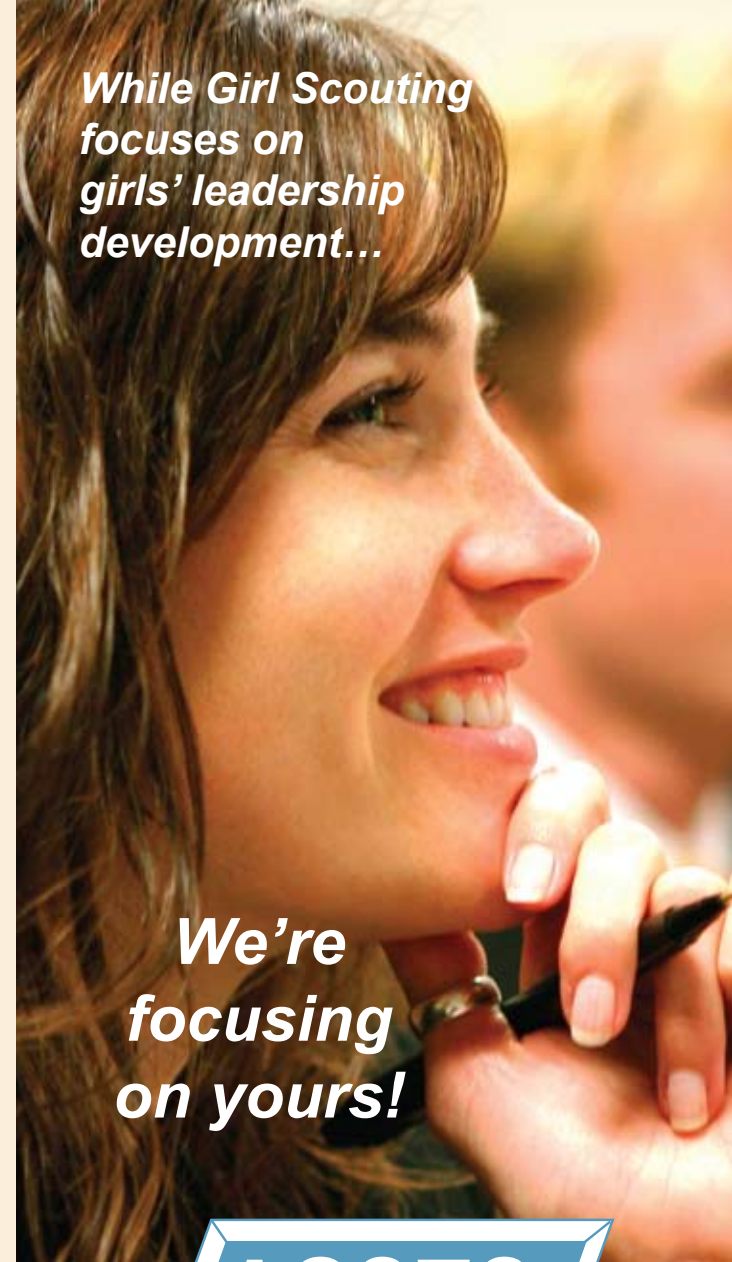

www.agses.org

Association of Girl Scout Executive Staff

1601 N Bond Street, Suite 303
Naperville, IL 60563
630.369.7781
630.369.3773 Fax
www.agses.org

While Girl Scouting focuses on girls' leadership development...

We're focusing on yours!

Association of Girl Scout Executive Staff

The Association of Girl Scout Executive Staff (AGSES) is the national professional organization maintained for the purpose of enhancing professional excellence for all employed Girl Scout staff. AGSES is an independent, voluntary association and is an active, working organization that encourages participation from every member. It serves as a nationwide voice for all Girl Scout staff. Working in partnership with GSUSA and other professional groups throughout the country, the organization continues to examine the needs of its membership - securing valuable work-related benefits for Girl Scout staff. AGSES has taken the lead by assisting Girl Scout staff through the nuances of realignment by offering tools and techniques for managing stress, blind resume posting, nationwide job postings, dialogue about retirement eligibility, and more.

Share Our Vision

The Association of Girl Scout Executive Staff defines the Girl Scout profession. The organization does that through the following areas of focus:

- PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT opportunities that build skills and competencies for individuals employed in Girl Scouting and that build capacity for the organization.
- PROMOTION of Girl Scouting as a career.
- ADVOCACY on behalf of Girl Scout employed staff.

Share Our Goals

- AGSES will be an inclusive organization.
- AGSES will inspire appreciation for professional development resulting in a highly skilled professional workforce.
- AGSES will be recognized by Girl Scout Staff as the leading provider of professional development opportunities.
- AGSES will have organizational systems and processes with barrier-free access that supports a unified, consistent national message.
- AGSES members will benefit from the advocacy work of AGSES.
- AGSES is committed to achieving pluralism and racial/ethnic diversity; to practicing affirmative action; and to inspiring the personal commitment of each member to these goals.

Share the Benefits

AGSES offers something for everyone:

- Professional and personal development opportunities
- A nationwide network of Girl Scout executive staff
- Collaborative workshop with GSUSA
- MemberLink, a quarterly e-newsletter
- Colleague Conversation Teleconferences
- Opportunities for open discussion of issues and ideas
- AGSES web site, www.agses.org, portions with "Member-Only" access.
- An annual national convention
- A national job posting service
- A blind resume posting service

One of AGSES greatest assets is delivering high quality-low cost services to members by way of annual conferences. Our conferences offer skill-building workshops, sensitive issues education, pluralism venues, communication tools, and other opportunities for professional and personal learning opportunities. Not only do the conferences provide national travel opportunities for its members, they also set the perfect stage for networking, camaraderie, and friendship with Girl Scout staff in other councils. (Financial assistance is available to members).